Mastering Conflict Situations with Finesse

Dana Garnett

If you act professionally and take pride in what you do... (as trustees do!) ... yet sometimes have stressful altercations with your clients, partners or associates that drain you, and you're not sure what to do or say to turn things around for needed progress, results and ease... learn how to master key strategies that reduce stress, boost your overall health, AND help you:

- easily handle tough situations in the moment
- have increased composure in challenging situations
- have increased intuition for fast, effective problem-solving
- enhance communication and prevent miscommunication, and more!

Starting Things Off Right: Trust Review Best Practices and Pitfalls

Adam Sherry, Esq.

Best practices regarding reviewing trust documents from the perspective a trustee, including:

- Things to consider when determining whether to accept a trustee nomination and problematic provisions
- Preparing a trust review memorandum to file for use throughout the entire matter
- How to effectively work with an attorney to limit liability
- Roles
- Responsibilities
- How to maximize value for trust beneficiaries

Care Management

Jennifer Axelson and Jennifer Gazda

As a trustee, you act as a trusted advisor and advocate for your clients. In order to maximize positive outcomes within your support for your clients, it is sometimes optimal to include a third party to offer additional guidance, education, and hands-on support. Care Managers can offer invaluable assistance to you and your clients as professionals focused on healthcare coordination, advocacy, maximized independence, crisis prevention, and the promotion of the overall health and quality of life for individuals. This presentation will outline those instances when incorporating a Care Manager into a client's support team is useful, and best practices for partnering with Care Managers.

Serving as Designated Representative: Another Opportunity for the Independent Trustee

Dan Felix, Esq. and Theresa Hughes

Learn about the role of Designated Representative defined in the UTC and how it can benefit your practice and your beneficiaries.

Trust Protectors: Guardians of the (Trust) Galaxy

Jenny Hill Bratt, Esq. and Matthew R. Owens, Esq.

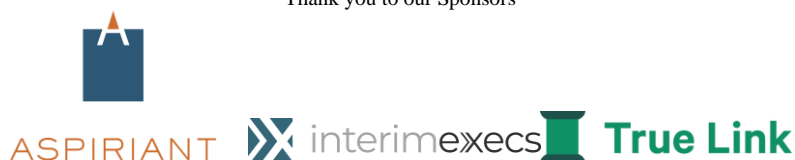

Take a dive into the role of Trust Protector. When should it be employed and how does it differ from similar fiduciary roles? Who should be appointed to the role and why?

Corporate Transparency Act

Gary Fletcher, Esq.

Anyone, including trustees, with a controlling interest, at least 25%, in a corporation or corporate-like entity will be responsible for filing with FinCEN. Penalties start at $500/day and filing requirements begin on January 1, 2024.

Business Practices – Ethics and Competence

Marguerite C. Lorenz, CTFA, CLPF, MCIT

Ethics is doing the right thing for the right reason. How do you know it's right?? An Estate Plan is a set of written, dated, and signed documents based on the Probate Code of your State. In this Plan, the Trustor (Grantor, Settlor, Creator, Testator, etc.) grants authority to another person/entity to make tax, legal, financial and medical decisions. In this presentation, I hope to give you tools so you can answer this existential question for yourself.

Advanced Issues In A Trustee's Duty to Disclose

David F. Johnson, Esq.

This presentation deals with both common and advanced issues in disclosing to trust beneficiaries. Duties under trust documents, statutes, and common law. The duty to provide accountings. Limits that can be placed in the duty to disclose by trust documents. Whether the duty to disclose is an active duty or a passive duty and whether disclosure to a representative of a class is adequate. Disclosure when a beneficiary is disabled. Co-trustee issues involved in disclosure obligations. Etc.

Dan Felix, Esq. MCIT (www.The-Professional-Trustee.com)

Principal, The Professional Trustee

Chicago based Daniel P. Felix advises & counsels families and their trustees about trust administration — and in the right situation, Dan serves as trustee. Dan is a licensed Illinois attorney using his legal and other essential skills to help families navigate the rough waters of disability and death. In this unique expertise, Dan works closely with each family’s estate & financial planners as well as their other advisors. Insured and, on a project basis, bonded,

Dan has two employees and a roster of sub-contractors he uses as needed to provide professional continuity as well as efficient support. While serving as fiduciary, Dan recommends the use of a trust protector to provide institutional continuity in the event of his own inability to further serve. As an independent trustee, Dan wrote and believes in the Bill of Trust Beneficiary Rights.

Dan is a co-founder of the Independent Trustee Alliance and past President of the Chicago Trustee Collaboratory.

Dan speaks frequently on the subjects of trust structure, trust vision, trust administration, and trusts in crisis, teaching attorneys as well as lay audiences. His articles on these trust topics have appeared in various state, national and international journals, and include a series on Keys to Successful Trust Administration. Copies of his articles from that series and others appear on his website and on LinkedIn.

Theresa Hughes, MBA, CTFA, AEP (www.piniondelaware.com)

Principal, Pinion Delaware Individual Trustee

With over 30 years in the trust business, Theresa has accumulated the kind of expertise and perspective that enables her to handle a wide variety of trusts, often with unique and complex needs that require innovative and flexible solutions. For many good reasons, in affiliation with Santora CPA Group, Pinion has chosen Delaware, a state with trust laws that are known to be among the most favorable in the country for trust creation and administration.

Delaware laws permit the separation of trustee powers, such as administration, investment management, and discretionary distribution duties, allowing the creator of a trust and their beneficiaries maximum flexibility in the management of their trust.

Partner, Private Client and Tax

Jenny Hill Bratt is a partner in the private client and tax team at the international law firm, Withers. Her practice is focused on US and international estate and income tax planning, trusts and estates administration, family and closely-held business planning and charitable planning and exempt organizations.

She advises US individuals who own foreign assets on the manner in which such assets should be structured as well as their US tax compliance obligations. She routinely employs transfer tax mitigation techniques such as intentionally defective grantor trusts, grantor retained annuity trusts, irrevocable life insurance trusts, and family limited partnerships, among others.

Jenny regularly advises clients with the creation and administration of closely-held family businesses, from choice of entity issues, to the design and implementation of limited partnerships and limited liability companies, structuring tax-efficient wealth transfers and addressing income tax solutions arising from investments and operating businesses.

She also advises clients in planning and implementing charitable gifts including structuring such gifts through charitable remainder trusts and charitable lead trusts. She can also assist clients with the formation of private foundations and private operating foundations and advise such clients on issues that arise in the administration of such entities.

Jenny is a fellow in the American College of Trust and Estate Counsel (ACTEC) and is certified as a specialist in estate planning, trust, and probate law by the State Bar of California Board of Legal Specialization. She served on the Executive Committee of the Trusts and Estates Section of the California Lawyers Association, and was involved in the passing of the California Uniform Trust Decanting Act effective January 1, 2019. Jenny has been ranked on Legal Week's Private Client Global Elite "Ones to Watch" lists since 2019. She holds a B.A. from University of California – San Diego and a J.D. and LL.M. from University of San Diego.
